What is the Intercultural Dialogue Resource Centre (ICDRC) of the Anna Lindh Foundation?

In 2020 the Anna Lindh Foundation launched the Intercultural Dialogue Resource Centre, a hub gathering publications related to Intercultural Dialogue in the EuroMed region issued from the work of the civil society, media, academia and other relevant stakeholders to make them available and inspiring for everyone. It includes academic and journalistic publications, policy papers, reports, toolkits, manuals dealing with intercultural dialogue with a EuroMed/national approach.

It is organised in line with the following thematic priorities: Education: i.e., intercultural learning; Cities: i.e., mobility, migration and intercultural cities; Media: i.e., media literacy, cross-cultural reporting and its role in shaping perceptions; Culture: i.e., arts, creativity, translation for dialogue; Youth: i.e., youth empowerment, mutual perceptions; Gender: i.e., fighting gender and cultural stereotyping.

What are the criteria of the relevant Publications to be uploaded and published on the ICDRC?

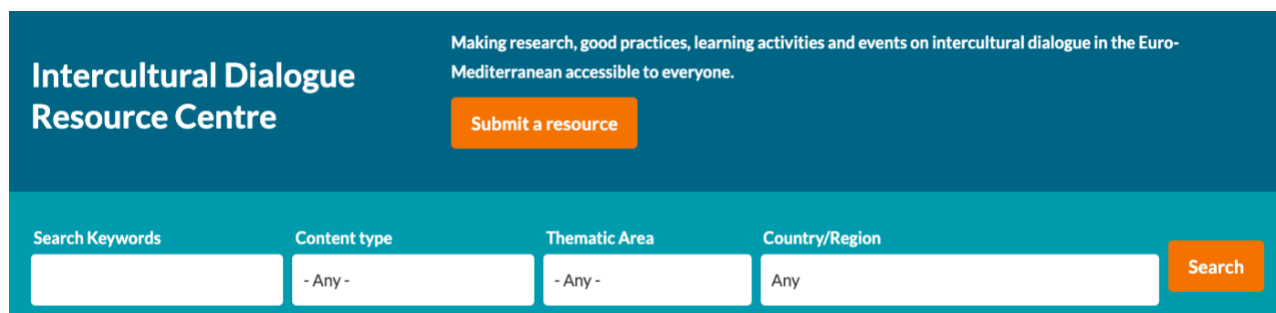

The following criteria should be considered when uploading publications:

- It is compulsory to provide a link to the publication itself.
- The abstract should be between 250 and 300 words in English, Arabic or French. The publication itself may be written in any official national language of the Euro-Mediterranean region.
- The publication should be produced by relevant organisations/institutions and available on their platforms.
- The publication should be relevant in terms of Intercultural Dialogue and should be generated at national level, but interesting at Euro-Med regional scale and not pre-date 2018.
- Have an ISBN (International Standard Book Number) or ISSN (International Standard Serial Number) or an equivalent standard.
- The publication cannot address politically sensitive, tense and explosive topics nor shall it use language or terminology that can be deemed as increasing polarisation and mistrust in the region.

What happens to the submitted Resources?

Submitted resources will be forwarded for the editorial check of the ALF Secretariat. Once the resource is published, it appears then on the Resource Centre Homepage (Latest resources appear first): <https://www.annalindhfoundation.org/intercultural-dialogue-hub>.

The published resource can also be looked up using the different search options of the Resource Centre Search bar such as Search Keywords, Content type, Thematic Area and/or Country/Region:

The screenshot shows the Intercultural Dialogue Resource Centre homepage. At the top, there is a dark blue header with the text "Intercultural Dialogue Resource Centre" in white. To the right of the header, there is a white box containing the text "Making research, good practices, learning activities and events on intercultural dialogue in the Euro-Mediterranean accessible to everyone." and an orange button labeled "Submit a resource". Below the header, there is a search bar with four input fields: "Search Keywords", "Content type" (with a dropdown menu showing "- Any -"), "Thematic Area" (with a dropdown menu showing "- Any -"), and "Country/Region" (with a dropdown menu showing "Any"). To the right of the search bar is an orange button labeled "Search".
