EuroMed intercultural dialogue for the climate emergency

Environmental issues and climate change are the areas of major mutual interest for people North, South, East and West of the Mediterranean.

A majority of respondents in both SEM and European countries expect that greater Euromed cooperation will benefit their society in terms of improved environmental sustainability (88% of SEM respondents and 84% of European respondents think it will 'definitely' or 'somewhat' improve environmental sustainability'). Climate change and environmental sustainability present therefore an opportunity for dialogue and joint action around the region.

GAINS FROM EURO-MED COOPERATION

By reinforcing closer cooperation among MED countries, the society can gain in environmental sustainability?
