youth in activities that address human rights issues. As a result, increase youth participation in reinforcement and protection of human rights. Fundamentally, empower youth to be active in achieving sustainable development goals.

Development Opportunities

We acknowledge the challenges youth face due to the lack of employment opportunities and the accelerating competition in the labour market. Our efforts to support youth take different shapes and employ diverse methods. Mainly, improve their skills, such as technical skills through introducing them to new technologies they can utilize. As well as vocational skills as in problem-solving, critical thinking and time-management. Examples of the methods we use can be training courses, non-formal learning and networking events.

However, by learning new skills and expanding youth knowledge they can be more employable, yet we also work on building the youth's efficiencies to manage projects and adopt entrepreneurial mindsets. We achieve this through facilitating entrepreneurship opportunities for youth and carry out incubation programs.

The development of youth cannot be fulfilled without significant consideration of health and well-being; that is why we promote a healthy lifestyle. We encourage youth to lead an active and healthful life through inclusive and accessible Sports programs. Further, by raising awareness about health problems, diseases, and addiction, intending to protect youth. Despite the aim of any program, organized or implemented by JYIF, participants' mental health and well-being is always a priority.
